President Johnson has presented the National Security Medal to the widow of Desmond Fitzgerald, former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, who died July 23 of an apparent heart attack. Fitzgerald, virtually unknown to the public, was considered one of the government's most influential officials.

The Internal Revenue Service wants $14,485.32 in back income taxes from the estate of Thomas

"Three Finger Brown" Lanza, the Mafia leader who died in New York July 12.

Dr. Donald F. Hornig, President Johnson's science adviser, will lead a delegation of experts to Taiwan to help advise Nationalist China on ways to strengthen science and technology there.

The President plans to nominate G. Joseph Minetti, a New York Democrat, for another term on the Civil Aeronautics Board.
